Fine Celtic Music

Cormorant's Fancy is a Celtic band based in south-central Pennsylvania. Playing traditional and contemporary Irish and Scottish music and their own arrangements with fine harmonies and multifaceted instrumentals blending fiddle, concertina, penny whistles, low whistles, guitar, bass, keyboards and bodhran; they have established themselves as one of the finest Celtic bands in central PA.

Cormorant's Fancy has performed monthly as the House Band for the Historic Fairfield Inn for the last six years. They were filmed for a cable television advertisement covering the Mid-Atlantic states, and provided the soundtrack for a documentary film on Adams County, PA. They've played a wide range of pubs, eateries, concert series, colleges, festivals, private parties, benefits and weddings. They performed for the Titanic Artifact Exhibit at the Whitaker Center in Harrisburg, PA., and at a number of festivals, including the Adams County Irish Festival, Adams County Heritage Festival, Central Pennsylvania Festival of the Arts (State College), Fort Hunter Days, History Meets the Arts Weekend, Huntingdon Arts Festival, McLain Celtic Festival, Penn-Mar Irish Festival, and Summer's End Festival. The band has warmed the stage for the likes of Tommy Makem, John Whelan, Malinky, and Cherish the Ladies. Cormorant's Fancy has performed in concert series including Mt. Gretna in the Park, Chambersburg Brown Bag Lunch Concerts, Music, Gettysburg! and others. Their music is available on two CD's.
